

ENGAGE and NextGen Announce Integration Partnership to Streamline OFS Operations by Connecting Tickets, Invoices and Back-End Systems

March 8, 2023

DENVER — Engage Mobilize Inc. (ENGAGE®), a leading provider of field service management software for the Oil & Gas industry, and NextGen Software Inc., today announced that they are partnering to deliver integration capabilities that connect field service management software to accounting and ERP systems.

This partnership comes at a time when the Oil & Gas industry is facing multiple challenges in providing affordable, reliable energy to the market. Managing field services with disconnected systems can result in bottlenecks, redundant tasks and a lack of timely, accurate data. By connecting information from field ticketing to back-end systems, companies gain financial visibility, eliminate duplicate data and gain business insights.

The ENGAGE-NextGen solution allows E&P operators and oilfield service providers to seamlessly pass ENGAGE E-invoice data between systems, from QuickBooks® to SAP®. Companies can maximize the advantage of ENGAGE's intelligent field operations software by integrating with existing accounting and ERP platforms using NextGen's i2x® and eFast Integrator® solutions.

"We are excited about this relationship and helping the energy industry achieve new levels of efficiency," said Scott Cilento, CEO, ENGAGE. "This integration gives customers a simple and seamless method for connecting their systems, creating new opportunities for optimizing financials and controlling costs."

"ENGAGE's state-of-the-art field service management solution delivers tremendous efficiencies to their clients," said David Wolpo, Co-Founder, NextGen. "Our integration capabilities for vendors and operators amplifies this by connecting accounting systems with little to no IT involvement."
